no matter how improbable, must be the Truth. (Sherlock Holmes)

Neil & I, ruminating in the Ivory Tower at 36½ Union St, resolved to relate the study of assassinology to understanding the mess we're in today thru our perception of PWM, the Professional War Machine. Having strengthened itself since infancy ('39) thru coming of age ('60) to manhood in Dallas ('63) and maturity in VietNam, PWM is now enjoying its Golden Years of Anti-Communism preaching the Gospel of the Most Evil Empire. Projecting the wise Grandfather image, a bulwark against all ills, PWM rakes in the sheckles while terrorism, heroin and hunger plague our Planet.

One way to stop PWM short is to "Praise the Lord and [REFUSE TO] Pass the Ammunition." If possession and use of AMMO were a federal crime, as is MARYJANE, eventually it would become an international crime. Finally, with the State, it would wither away into being merely offensive in the neighborhood, the Community we all call Earth....

CORONER by Thomas Noguchi with Joseph DiMona
(Simon & Shuster, NY, 1983)

This story about a man of integrity's bout with the hoopla of Hollywood's best and brightest dead, aided and abetted by typical, small-minded political prosecution, is worth reading. Through those mists comes the Coroner bound and determined to further the work of foremsic medicine, firm in the knowledge its practitioners benefit mankind.

His reactions to the worst possible situations come through as believable insofar as one can understand the life of a ceremonially-minded, Oriental medical examiner. Aside from filmland's naturally gossipy publicity, the value of the book is the story of Noguchi's modus operandi, the seemingly unerring critique he brings to each case. Solutions may take time and they vary and progress from theory to fact as associates bring in seemingly incongruous information. Undeterred, we see him smile and continue with small steps along a chosen way.

> In forensic medicine
> Paradoxes reign.
> Which one !

Admittedly biased since acquiring a copy of his RFK Autopsy Report, his description of the fatal bullet's direction thru the Candidate's right mastoid region has sustained us these many years:

Coroner does not let you down:

> ... the bullet had entered the skull an inch to the left of Kennedy's right ear ... and shattered. The tiny fragments... reveal what type of ammunition had casued the wound, in this case, a .22. But such small metallic bits could not be matched definitely to Sirhan's gun. That meant other evidence would be needed to establish that Sirhan Sirhan was in fact the assassin .... (pg 100)
> (after test-firing) ... I now knew the location of the murder weapon... one inch from the edge of his right ear, only three inches behind his head .... (pg 103)
> the existence of a second gunman remains a possibility. This I have never said that Sirhan Sirhan killed Robert Kennedy .... (pg 108)

Between the last two quotes there is a lot of gobbledegook about Sirhan lunging forward to fire bullets into RFK and then lunging back to fire bullets into the other five wounded persons ... the Coroner does not count the shots in his lungeful theory .. in fact he departs entirely from his usual stadfast way of analysis to the point that it is obvious the publisher's legal counsel and others have intervened in favor of the Lone Assassin Theory ...

As Cyril Wecht has shown us, medical examiners cannot avoid political caution. He hangs onto the remote possibility of a low-level, TSBD shot creasing the President's head in Dealey Plaza despite the fact the bullet must zig-zag its way thru trees...

In Coroner, we found Noguchi's ability to reconstruct and solve the crime to be the true measure of the man.

The Natalie Wood case: his preliminary conclusions had to be changed to fit in with his investigator's report. Changed they were and the final solution was naything but popular.

The John Belushi case: the Coroner's own detailed examination found the points of insertion for the murderer's needle which resulted in the overdose that killed the actor ... unfortunately L A County officialdom caught up with Noguchi that day and demanded his resignation as Coroner. This prevented him from pursuing his conviction that one can indeed tell whether or not needle injection is the result of one's own hand or that of another.

The Marilyn Monroe case: despite all the pressures from everywhere, the Coroner calls Monroe's suicide "very probable" (accent in orig)
(pg 86)

The William Holden case: the gash on his forehaad, which caused his death, need not have done so. Alcoholic intake prior to the wounding inhibited the natural clotting associated with any wound and Holden bled to death. Telling it like it was did not endear the Coroner to filmland's fans but he hoped the truth would deter others from over-indulgence.

The Charles Manson case: Noguchi by-passes the popular Helter-Skelter theory of igniting black vs white civil war ... leaning on psychiatric analysis of his friend Dr Frederick Hacker, the Coroner dives intuitively into an ancient human failing: revenge.

> ... at his (Manson's) trial, Tex Watson testified, "Manson told me to take a gun and a knife and go up where Terry Melcher used to live. He said to kill everybody in the house as gruesome as I could... (pg 141)

Melcher had "promised" to produce an album of Manson songs ... it did not happen. Having moved from 10050 Cielo Drive it befell the Tates the bad luck of occupying that address... revenge with a twist.

Our favorite is the case of the blonde with a small bullet hole in her forehead.

> ..."It's strange, " he (Noguchi's deputy) said. "The police say she was shot, but there's no bullet in the brain -- and no exit wound through which it escaped"... (pg 197)

A few months later after a casual glance at a shop-window mannequin the Coroner developed a hunch about a spike-heeled shoe as the murder weapon. He asked a detective to search the neighborhood and sure enough one was found, with blood on it to boot. Of course the blood type matched the victim's ... The Coroner has an affinity for playing Holmes on many occasions.

Respectfully we request the Coroner to apply that intuition to a similar case: a small bullet hole (?) just below the Adam's Apple, it's strange there is no damage to the spine and no wound of exit through which a bullet could escape.

Our question, Sir: what could reasonably be considered as causing the enlargement from 20-30 to 65-70 mm ?

Thanks to the delightful penmanship of one of our men in NJ, Em Brown, jr, we're making a small stab at a Centerfold ...it's not as successful as GKG's first in XII/79 : blowup of Bothun 4 showing the Accomplice sitting on the Grassy Knoll chatting with Novel, 30 seconds after the President had been assassinated.

Em's inadvertent dominance given the MOBster does not represent a shift in our thinking ... two soldiers, Braden and Ruby, do not a MOB-plot make .. we leave that evaluation to GR Blakey and R N Billings, despite the fact that Novel called Carlos Marcello as a character witness in his fire-bombing trial.

the IMPEACHMENT 7: WEISS, CONYERS, DIXON, DYMALLY, GONZALEZ, MITCHELL

Cutting off the AMMO will indeed grind The Professional War Machine to a halt ... Impeaching its Commander-in-Chief for the crime of Ordering the Invasion of Grenada is far more practical ...

As our last issue showed you, PWM's control of the Executive has resulted in America's becoming the foremost Banana Republic ... as the travesty of the last six Presidential elections demonstrates, PWM was backing its Top Banana every time ...

'64 : unable to understand or control JFK, it killed him
'68 : LBJ, sickening on body-counts, was told to step aside for RMN
'72 : RMN's shoo-in led to his over-confidence. PWM set him up; as planned he stumbled out under impeachment's cloud
'76 : GRF, its man from the Warren Commission lost a close one to the man from the Trilateral Commission ... PWM took two years to turn him into a born-again warrior
'80 : not cold enough, JEC was ousted by PWM's best actor to date .. as '84 shapes up as a not-so-instant replay of '72, PWM's laughing all the way to the bank

For those who can only see impeachment as a personal attack on a Great American, they are reminded that when they pay a traffic violation fine it is not a personal attack on a (great) American ... it is punishment for breaking the law.
We the People, revolted at the President's arrogant disregard for the law in this case:

.... To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water; .....
(Section 8 of Article I, Legislative Department)

We the People, simply ask for punishment that fits the crime:
IMPEACHMENT,
that the Presidency may be returned to its proper, non-peelable state.

.... The United States is thinking in terms of war and acting accordingly ....
(Andrei Gromyko, NYTimes I/22/84)

.... Mr Reagan is not afraid to take risks for war, but he is totally unable of taking risks for peace. As he has proved with increasing clarity ... [he] has demonstrated his intellectual and temperamental unfitness to conduct foreign policy on a rational or even a legal basis ....
(John B Oakes, NYTimes IX/29/83)

.... I believe we are in gross violation of International Law. This incursion was done in furtherance of the militarization of America. I oppose it. The voices of America must speak up now...
(Ron Dellums, SFChronicle, XI/10/83)

.... Add to the President's conduct deserving of impeachment, his statement that he is responsible for the Marine deaths in Lebanon ... His own war ... he has usurped powers only Congress has...

H. RES. 370

98th Congress
1st Session

November 10, 1983

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr WEISS (for himself, Mr CONYERS, Mr DIXON, Mr DYMALLY, Mr GONZALEZ and Mr MITCHELL) submitted the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary

Resolved, that Ronald Reagan, President of the United States, is impeached of the high crime or misdemeanour of ordering the invasion on October 25, 1983, of Grenada, a foreign state at peace with the United States, in violation of that portion of section 8 of article I of the Constitution of the United States which confers war powers on the Congress, and in violation of treaty obligations of the United States, including obligations under the Charter of the United Nations and the Charter of the Organization of American States, and the said Ronald Reagan, President of the United States, is further impeached of the high crime or misdemeanour of preventing news coverage of that invasion, thereby impairing the first amendment rights of those seeking to provide news coverage and of the American public in general.

ps

to say nothing of ravishing the domestic tranquility, insured by the preamble of said Constitution, of we the people of the United States who have a a damn good right to know what the hell he's up to.
